Jessica Dolan is a professional organizer — a professional who enriches your life by helping you to decrease stress, increase productivity, increase efficiency, improve physical environments, save money and last, but definitely no least, allow you to regain time for yourself. This is accomplished by establishing systems with simple organizing principles that are uniquely designed around a specific individual and situation. “There is no right or wrong,” Dolan promises, “only what works for you!”

In her own words, “Hi ... I am an anal-retentive neat freak. Oh, wait a second; this isn't my OA (Organizers Anonymous) introduction. Yes, I will fully admit that I'm 'one of those people.' One of those individuals who is on time for appointments, knows where everything in the house is located, can place my fingers on a file in five-seconds flat and has time each and every-single day to do just what I want — and not feel the east bit guilty while doing it! I AM a professional organizer, or rather a bringer of order!

“I really love what I do and I know that I can make enormous changes in people's lives, homes and offices. As you know, the work itself isn't always much fun and is rather tedious. I'm looking to lighten it up a bit.

“Would you really want to work with someone who is sort-of organized, mostly on time or has a general idea of where an item is located? I don't think so! Trust me, you want the anal-retentive neat freak — and that's exactly who I am!”

Dolan's methods for successful organizing have been featured at several professional women's events. Community activities include: president of WiNGS (Women's Network Group), a local networking association; member and ambassador liaison of NAPO (National Association of Professional Organizers) national and Pittsburgh chapters; presenter, Women's Leadership Conference; and she is currently very excited about her efforts to establish a local NAPO chapter. She will also graduate in June with the Leadership Centre County class of 2008, and confesses to being “Regular blog-Happy.” Visit the Get Organized Blog at www.centredaily.com.

Other award: 2007 Entrepreneur Award nominee and Top 100 People, 2007, Pennsylvania Business Central.

Closing quote: “Dare to dream big, visualize your big dream and work toward it each day. Things may not always go as you hope, but keep that dream in sight and you'll achieve it before you know it. Don't give up!”
